“ I have been in prayer for along time for each of you and most of all for Alex, he sure fought a hard fight. God only knows why it didn't go the way we were all praying. When it comes to this I know He knows, and one day we all will be with those that we love and miss so much. This is reason enough to make a decision to follow CHRIST. We know where Alex is and the ones that want to see him again will know how to honor the light and keep it shining for GOD and for Alex. We are so sorry for your loss, may you find comfort in knowing how he touched so many.

“ We don't know you and have never met, but I felt compelled to let you know that you are in our prayers and thoughts as you endure the hardest days of you lives. We lost our son to cystic Fibrosis 17 years ago so we know how though this is. I was just compelled to let you know we are thinking of you, God bless you and give you peace.

“ Every time Alex came through the doors of my classroom, he brought a smile to 17 other little faces. His charm and sense of humor always made me laugh. Heaven has received the sweetest angel. I can't wait to dance with him on those streets of gold one day!

“ I remember Alex coming in the office and I would take time to talk to him and let him play on my computer. I would get his lunch sometimes for him and wait with him for mom to pick him up. My heart is broken at this loss but I know that God has such a better plan for Alex. I am so glad he was in my life for such a short time and in my heart always. Sleep in Jesus' arms my precious boy.
