“ To the family of Avis Diehl;
Even though we lost touch over the years I will never forget the memory I have of our mothers. We lived across the street from you on Cutler Ave when I was young. Our mothers became good friends. I remember them getting up and getting their husbands off to work, the kids off to school, clean their houses then when they were done they would open their blinds. When they saw each others blind open it was time for a break at the picnic table with coffee and a game of yatsee. They became very good friends. Sadly we lost our mother when I was young and I remember asking Avis why you all were moving away and I remember her telling me she could not take looking over at our house every day and knowing us 5 kids were there without our mother. For some reason that has stuck in my head and I have thought of your family often. I shared that story with my little brother Gordon who was a playmate of Marks. Thank you Avis for that memory.
