“ Brian and I were both working at Waterwise but only knew each other by name. Wheel of Fortune was coming to Orlando to do auditions and I mentioned it around Brian. He piped up that he wanted to do that too and that was the first time we hung out. He drove us there and, as luck would have it, his number was drawn for a chance at prizes and an audition whereas mine wasn't. He was in such shock that when I asked later about the audition he couldn't remember what they asked or what he answered and kept repeating the whole way home, "I can't believe they drew my number..." He didn't get picked to be on the show and the only prize he won that day was a Wheel of Fortune Frisbee, but we both gained a long friendship starting with that event. You're going to be sorely missed, brother!
