“ Dearest Shannon, Your dad was like an extra dad to me, growing up. He'd never let me want for anything, and was always there with his silliness and funny advice. I remember like it was yesterday, riding in the back of his car on our way to Disney a few times, or wherever we decided we HAD to go. He'd let you listen to whatever music you wanted. If we misbehaved, we listened to the likes of Burl Ives or some other classic of the time. Sometimes he'd turn on something terrible just to get us to stop singing at the top of our lungs. It's funny now, but was groaning torture, then. It's not the same world without him in it. I wish I could be there for this, but I'll be down there later this year and will properly pay my respects. I wish you and Zane peace for the future, which it seems you have. I love you both and am sending you all hugs and my prayers.
