“ Gosh Papa, I already miss you so much, my heart aches tonight.
You are truly the best father a girl could ask for.

I was so proud to follow you around at school, working on projects, cars, auto parts shopping. You taught me most of what I know about cars, from your tiny helper to apprentice of sorts. I feel like Dry Fork and Mill Run is my homeland because you taught me about my Appalachian roots, even walking me down the mountain, over the creek, and back up the mountain to your two room schoolhouse. We walked the river together, drank from the springs, helped chase your brothers cows. I'll always be your daddy's girl.

The world was a better place with you here...

I hope you, Mama, Troy, Mona, Elmer, Margie and the whole bunch that went before you are having a great family reunion.

I love you more than words can say. I know you weren't ready to leave us, but it's ok, we'll be ok. Rest in peace Papa
