“ Dalton, I have no words that I can say about you that have not already been said today. You came into my life like a whisper and blossomed into this amazing young man that loved, adored and took great care of my granddaughter, Layla. Young love is painfull but it's also one of the best things young people can give to each other. I have seen the beauty of love through your eyes and your love for our family is unforgettable. I will honor you every day and pay your kindness forward. Thank you for being an incredible young man. I will always keep you close. I hope your family will heal and remember how special you are and will always be. Love you to the moon and back.

“ Dalton was a truly kind soul. I have wonderful memories of spending time in school with him. In his own words, he found it to be so much fun to "goof off" together in class, and to see us grow up and "start our own lives" shortly after we graduated. Each time that I saw him after class, I was elated to catch up with him and check up on how he was doing. I loved being near him and having his presence in my life. From previous interactions we had, it was certain that Dalton was a hard-working, sincere, and humble person who truly cared about others in his life. He was constantly striving to better himself so he could better those around him. He was a person who was seeking to deepen his trust in and relationship with God in humility and love, and he was so grateful for any support he got when others tried to assist him in that pursuit. He will not be forgotten in my heart, and I will always keep him in remembrance as a reason to continue to live. I will always celebrate the beautiful gift of his existence. I am at peace in the hope that his soul is now at peace, and I hope to meet him again in the life to come. Dalton may not be with us in this world anymore, but I am grateful to God that this world is temporary and that there will be a day when I meet him again. On that day, I am sure we will continue to enjoy being in each other's presence. Rest assured, we will create more fun and beautiful memories together, except this time, unlike life in this world, they will be without end.

“ I was heartbroken to hear about your loss. While I didn't have the honor of knowing Dalton personally, I've known your family for years, and I can only imagine the depth of this pain. Please know you're in my thoughts, and I'm holding you all close in my heart during this incredibly difficult time. Wishing you strength, peace, and comfort in the days ahead.

“ Dalton was the definition of a man, he was sharp witted, very hard working and a provider, no matter what challenge he came across he found a solution to it wether it was doing it himself or asking for help he made sure he got it done, he helped me more than i can ever express. All i really have left to say is i miss you brother, you're my best friend and not a day will go by for the rest of my life i wont miss you
