“ My heartfelt sympathy to the members of David's family. Although I am unable to attend the memorial service (I live in Atlanta) my thoughts and prayers are with you. I first met David when I was in second grade, he lived a few houses down from me on Crest Avenue in Leesburg. His mother and my grandmother would take turns driving us to school. We were best friends in high school and later both joined the military at about the same time. We remained quite distant friends throughout the years but I would look him up whenever I visited family in Leesburg. As I write this I'm flooded with so many great memories of David and the antics that boys do growing-up. His friendship, encouragement, and fearlessness for living during those early years helped shape my adult life. I am fortunate having known a soul like David and I look forward to seeing him again on the other side. May God provide you all with some measure of comfort during your time of mourning.
