“ I will always remember my sister LAUGHING, she loved to laugh! As I mourn, Heaven rejoices because one has been added to the ranks of Angels who has had practice and extensive experience! She helped many people and was most happy when doing so. I know her heart was rare and she KNOWS I LOVE HER!

“ I am totally shocked at finding this out. I know her birthday was yesterday, Sept 8th, and I sent her an email and birthday card. I had no idea she has passed away. Her last email was filled with such hope. She had completed all her treatments and was doing sooooooo well, according to her email. Plus she was feeling very good. I think maybe she only said that to make everyone think she was ok when she wasn't. Deb and I met on the internet many years ago and her and I , and another gal named Deb were the best of friends. We told each other everything on a daily basis. Our other friend Deb from W.Virginia also passed away last year from cancer, but I really though Deb would make it. She was so strong. I am soooooo saddened by her death. When I didn't get an email back from her, MY WORST fears came true when I started to search for information and found this. I am saddened. I truly hope her husband is doing ok. She loved him soooooooooooooo dearly. Patty
