“ To everyone that had a chance to know my only daughter, Please allow me to say thank you for being her friend! Elissa, my baby pumpkin I wish you would have reached out to someone when things seem impossible, I wish I could have been more involved in your life to seen the signs. I am now finding myself lost for words with a broken heart wondering what any of us could have done differently to prevent this tragic turn of events. I pray that God will walk with you every day in heaven and one day in time I will have the honor to stand beside you too! "Those we love don't go away, They walk beside us everyday, Unseen, unheard, but always near, Still loved, still missed and very dear." "Death leaves a heartache No one can heal; Love leaves a memory No one can steal." Your loving birth father always, Russ

“ We have had quite a ride, you and I, and I would not change one single minute of the time we spent together. You were as beautiful inside, as you were on the outside. I am honored to be your mother. I don't know the reasons for the suffering you had to endure, but trust God has more wonderful things instore for you. You will always be the first thing I think about when I wake up, and the last thing I think about when I go to sleep, now and for the rest of my life. I love you Elissa, and I miss you...Mom

“ Hey baby girl, it's really hard to believe it's been almost a year since we last spoke on the telephone. I really do miss hearing your soft sweet voice as we talked about things and making plans. I really wished you were still here with us on earth, the business that I started for you has really grown since last year and I was really looking forward to turning it over to you, just liked we discussed several times. I still cannot understand the pain or hurt you were enduring in your life to let you make the life ending choice that you made, but I am sure you felt it was your only way to escape it. Baby I really wish I could have heard your silent cries for help and I was more there for you. After you passed away, I have since then decided to try help others in need and I am currently involved with a struggling single mom and her family helping her to get back on her feet financially and emotionally to get ahead in life again. I know this will never bring you back to me, but it will always remind me your soft gentle heart and kindness you had for others as I try to pay it forward. If everything goes okay, I believe we will be turning the business over to my niece Maggi to manage after I retire. Love always, Dad
