“Gerald and I were high school buddies at William A. Bass High in Atlanta. We had arrived at a high school football game when it just began to shower. As we were standing at the top of the stairs leading to the stands, someone walked by and opened up their umbrella just as they passed Gerald. The tiny tip at the end of umbrellas when they are opened poked Gerald right in the eye. And yes, it was the fake one! It popped it right out of the socket! It fell onto the steps, rolled down a few aisles, came to rest at someones feet. They sat there not knowing why this guy was reaching under them to grab his runaway eyeball! Gerald scrambled around until he found it, picked it up, wiped it off, put a little saliva on it and popped it right back into place as if nothing happened. No one was any the wiser. After this mishap, we thoroughly enjoyed the game!

Then there was the time he and I worked for the same construction plumbing company. We were plumber's helpers. He was on the second or third floor, before the exterior walls had been built, and he needed me to toss him some tools from the ground. Well, having only one eye can make this a problem. I must have tossed that tool at least three or four times before he was able to see it well enough to catch it.

Listen, I'm not making fun of my dear friend, Gerald. We were the best of friends at school and at church. When I went off to college, got married and moved to south Florida, Gerald wasn't far behind. After he came down to Florida and stayed with us for a while, we worked together at the same pool maintenance company.

Gerald will always be a part of some of my fondest memories.

God bless you all.

You we're more then a father you were my best friend. The talks we shared will stay with me forever. I will live by courage to go on, through your memories. I love you dad, "we" will met again to take that walk along the beach through the sand. You will be with me everywhere I go. "Save a place for me dad."

“Daddy you are going to be missed so very much, we should never take one for granted. We should take every opportunity we have to tell someone how much we love them and appreciate them. You'll never know when that last time will be. Dad I'll remeber your smile, no matter what you always had a smile on your face. Your joy and happiness has affected so many people in such a positive way, when I hear the birds I'll always think of you. It did not matter you alwasys had such a peacefull manner you told some of the best jokes ever. You could turn tears to a smile that a thousand dollars could not pay for. There were so many times you lifted my sprit and heart you'll never know how much I appreciated you, because we tend to think we always have tomorrow. Dad I just want you to know you will always have a very special place in my heart. I hope you have seen the bird of paradise! May all your pain be gone and peace be with you, I hope we will meet again one day in that beautiful place, and we can view the bird of paradise together. Love you so much. Your beloved Daughter, Tira.
