“ We didn't know him long, but will remember conversations at Potlucks about his service days in England, and, of course, the shrimp cocktails he always brought to share with the Cypress Creekers.

“ Harry and I won't joke about "woiken" any more. I know he is happier now, no doubt listening to Glen Miller and dancing with Yusa. He has taken his place around the final campfire, he'll be trading jokes with guys from the "Mighty Eighth" AF and swapping stories veterans from Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Meuse Argon, the Chosin, Ir Drang, Faleuja.... He'll be having a great time, he loved to meet, joke and talk with people. We talked every week until he was no longer able, I miss him and I'll miss the talks.
