“ I was really shocked about Elaine's passing. I had just visited with her the day before and she was her usual "upbeat" self. I have been her neighbor for only a few years, but in this short time, I have many fond memories. She was really a special person. I will never forget her! Bill, you are in my thoughts and prayers.

“ We offer our condolences and continue to pray for you Uncle Bill. May God bless you with peace and comfort at this time and in the days to come. It is hard to believe that Aunt Elaine was the last of her immediate family, being preceded in death by her parents Henry Peter William and Helen Ruth Reynolds Cohrs of Enid, Oklahoma in 1984 and 1995 respectively, by sister Wilma Pauline in 1931, by brother Wilbur Lee in 1997, and brother Henry Dale in 2009. I'm comforted by the certainty that she is rejoicing with her Lord and Savior, and celebrating the company of Fred and her family. She enjoyed forwarding emails most recently, especially the humorous or interesting ones. Recently, she sent one that was particularly poignant and meaningful to each of us who remain in this life... It ended with the thoughts that there are "Four things that you can't recover. The stone...after the throw. The word...after it's said. The occasion...after it's missed. And, the time...after it is gone." Those thoughts speak volumes to us and remind us that we need to take time to smell the roses, and make sure that we demonstrate our love to our friends and family. Otherwise, the opportunities are lost.
