“ My wife and I moved in next door to Hjalmar in October of 2023. It probably took us 3 months to just learn how to pronounce his name! Not sure if he remembered mine either, but he'd always greet me with "Hey neighbor!" I'm not a golfer or military veteran, but my oldest brother is a Vietnam Veteran and I served in the Peace Corps. I can't really bowl that well anymore either, but I did enjoy chatting with him about his bowling, camping and military experiences. A couple days before Hjalmar went into the hospital, he was helping me with some problems I was having with my cell phone and computer.

The following day Hjalmar knocked on my front door and handed me an American Flag saying "I hope you don't feel insulted, but I bought you this on Amazon". Our flag was in terrible shape from a previous storm and I just didn't get around to replacing it! I promptly put it up the next morning and thanked him again. That evening he went into the hospital and we never saw him again! I can't help thinking of him every time I look at that flag! That was so thoughtful and kind of him!
