

Jane Watson

February 12, 1941 - June 24, 2012

Obituary of Jane Watson

Jane Elizabeth Watson, 71, of Center Hill, Florida, died Sunday, June 24, 2012 at Center Hill, FL. She was born February 12, 1941 in Tampa, Florida. Mrs. Watson was a homemaker.

She is survived by her mother, Margaret Glover of Center Hill, FL; son, Boyce Guy Dollar of Tallahassee, FL; daughters, Donna Faye (Edward) Wilson of Dunnellon, FL; and Crystal Lynn (Tim) Sauter of Inverness; 7 grandchildren; and 6 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her daughters, Jimmy Marie Dollar and Margaret Jane Watson, and her father, Guy W. Hughes.

Tribute Wall

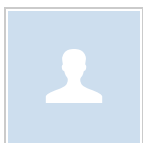

“ so sorry for your loss

lynn porter - October 01, 2014 at 12:00 AM

“ Jane Watson has been a friend to me for 17 years. I loved to watch her laugh. I can name on one hand the times i saw her cry. They say dynamite comes in small packages. That summed Janie up. They specifically wrote the phrase "shop 'til you drop" about Jane Watson !! I would take her shopping on occasion and by the end of the day, the last 2 or three stores in fact, i would wait in the car. It was such a day a few years ago, getting late, Janie said "let me run in winninx dixie (her name for it) and grab a couple things. won't take me but a minute." i said,"ok, i gotta get home n cook supper." AN HOUR LATER..... lol. I loved that woman in a way thats hard to explain. She was hard as nails and fragile as glass. When she had her open heart surgery, i was always with her. they had her on morphine for too long due to complications and she was starting to trip on it ! They transferred her out of icu to her own room and as the nurse and i were standing there, Janie pipes up,"you know why these walls change color, don't you ? It's to calm the patients down." The nurse and i actually looked to see if the walls were changing... !!! I've had some good laughs from that lady and i've had a lot of tears over how she was treated over all these years. But no matter what, she knew all she had to do was pick up a phone and i would be there. I love you, Jane Watson. You so deserve the peace you have now. Goodbye my friend !!

Lynn Porter - October 01, 2014 at 12:00 AM

“ Jane Watson

October 01, 2014 at 12:00 AM