“ I can remember back when Chris and I got together and the twin girls were pulling the Christmas ornaments off of her tree. She would say let them alone. She loved her family. I ended up marry Chris and Kopop we all called her was the most giving lady I know. She loved being with her family. She loved the kids and most of all the kids loved her. The story was told that when Chris would get stuck up in the woods in his younger days, he would not call his Mom and Dad. He would call Kopop and her husband and they would go up on the tractor and pull him out.

We love you Kopop and we will miss you.
