“ We are so sad to hear of Jerry's passing. He was a joy and an inspiration to us all. Soon after we moved to Love's Point, I crossed the street and demanded, "Please take me on a tour of your yard." New to Florida gardening, I was impressed with Jerry's skill with plants and totally daunted with the challenge facing me as I attempted to envision the right path for our yard. Jerry cheerfully accommodated my request, gifting me with numerous cuttings that grace our front and back yards today. One in particular, a cassia bush (I say "Cassia"; you say "Casshia"), I planted directly across the street from the mother plant. "Now, they can wave to each other," Jerry commented, and they still do.

One day, Jerry brought me a well-rooted cutting, an African Daisy, that he had culled from his yard. Later, when he saw it taking off in my front yard, he commented, "Isn't that something! A plant taking off like that from just a root!"

I will always be grateful for Jerry and his gifts of life. He was one of a kind with a deep appreciation of life's gifts as well as a deep understanding of life's sorrows. I know that Jerry lives on, if not on the earthly plane, then somewhere that plants grow miraculously and wonders never cease. We will always remember his kindness, his gratitude, and his sense of humor. He will be sorely missed.
