“ Angela, You and John made such an adorable couple. Everytime i'd see you two at work, walking and holding hands, my heart would melt. It was obvious how much you loved one another. I am most glad that John had the wonderful time with you before he left this earth. I hope you find peace in knowing that he truly loved you and you made him very happy. I am sorry for your loss.

“ The first day John started working in sterile processing he got lost in the hospital trying to find me. The second day he got lost again. On the third day I decided to meet him at the east entrance door. Same for his fourth and fifth days of work. After that he figured it out. I have to admit I wondered about him. That was over 5 years ago and he turn out to be one of the best employees we ever had! John loved mac and cheese, especially my mac and cheese. One day I decided to jazz it up with some jalapeno peppers. I made hima gigantic plate full and with fork in hand he took one look at it and asked what the "green stuff" was. I told him and he put down his fork and said he hated "vegatables" The was the last time I put jalapenos in the mac and cheese. In fact, as a tribute to John everyone in sterile processing is enjoying jalapeno-free mac and cheese today. Years ago when John got his first working evaluation from me I told him he was doing a fantastic job. He started to welt up with tears and I asked him what was wrong. He said in all his years of working no one had ever told him he was doing a great job. I still can't believe I was the first to tell him that, but in fact he did do a great job and I was always grateful he finally found his was to sterile processing. We love you John!

“ It was a pleasure to work with John every day. He had a great sense of humor, and a great heart. Angie and John always seemed like such a perfect couple, and I took joy seeing them talk to each other like they were still newlyweds. It saddens my heart to say bye to John, he was one of a kind and my days will not be the same without him there. I am glad he had time with Angie, she has a gentleness to her that fit John so well. It was a honor and a joy to know John and to have spent time with him. My condolences to his family and especialy his loving wife Angie. Love you guys.

“ I'm so sad to say goodbye to a very dear friend tonight. RIP John Cavallari. My heart aches for Angie and her family, and for John and his family. John, You fought hard, but this was too big for anyone. You will be missed more than anyone could ever imagine. Your kindness, generosity, and love will be your legend. The many lives you have touched will mourn your loss for a very long time. You lived and loved with every fiber of your being!!! I am honored to be counted as your friend. I love you John, May you rest in peace now. You will be missed by all whose lives you have touched. I'm a better person for having known you. ❤️ I am grateful beyond words to have been your friend.
