“ Dear Texter Family, My name is Winter. I volunteer in the community comforting my neighbors with the Bibe. My condolences and sympathies to the whole family. Here are some scriptures that comforted me. I reread and think about them when someone I love dies. They are: John 5:28,29; Acts 24:15; Revelation 21:4. These Scriptures all support each other in confirming Jesus promise concerning our dead loved ones , and that soon we won't worry about losing them again because 'death will be no more.' I know reading these verses, thinking about them along with expressing your feelings to God will help you through the grieving process. Remember that this process is different for everyone and lasts differnt amounts of time. My condolences. Sincerely, Winter
