“ My mother's sister Romie MacKenzie was married to Ed MacKenzie who was Juliet's mother's brother. I can always remember my cousin Virginia MacKenzie idolizing Juliet and thinking that she was beautiful. She wanted to be just like her! Gail Black Burry

“ I met Juliet and her beautiful family when invited there by Rob and Lori. The warmth in that home was palpable. Juliet prepared wonderful food and a wonderful setting for a family meal, where I felt I had been adopted as a rogue daughter, through working with Rob at the Sheriff's office and Lori through her work in the hospital we frequented with people unfortunate enough to have made our acquaintance, and were enroute to the Pasco Sheriffs Hotel. Juliet was so proud of Rob and loved the stories I shared with her. She was such a loving and doting mother and wife. It was wonderful being in her presence. Juliet, you are well loved and will be missed. Hug Rob for me and save me a seat at the table. Godspeed sweet angel.

Sorry for the typos (enroute - enrute) where - where, a d - and. Juliet would laugh about it. You can too.
