“ Mr. Ken came into my life almost eight years ago. I was blessed to have know a man with such strength, dignity and humor. There were many times that his sheer will amazed me. Thank you Mr. Ken for all the memories we created together, the long walks you took me on, the loving looks you gave me from your baby blues, and for your last words to me. May your eternity be as beautiful as your soul. Rest in peace now. I love you! I will miss you!

“ As I lost my grandparents at a young age, Ken and Marion became the closet thing to I had for grandparents through my formative years. Ken was always full of sage advice, and it was a sad day when I could no longer call on him for direction. I am glad that God finally called him home.
