“ There is no one to replace the man that you were, you were one of a kind, a breed apart from the rest. You looked for the good in everyone, and if it wasn't there, you gave a second look. You reached out and so many reacted back. You were all that God wants his people to be... You were a channel of Gods Peace. I pray that when my name is called, I will be in the same good grace that you were so I too may earn the rewards of Heaven and see your loving face once again. I love you, Annie

“ He always called me beautiful even when I wan't and he always hugged and kissed me good-by and told me he loved me. I know he meant it. He wasn't just my father-in-law, he was my second dad. I brushed his hair for him one time several years ago and I unknowingly did it the wrong direction. He just smiled and let me. He didnt want to burst my bubble. That's just the way he was. I miss him.

“ What a great man. He was more spiritual than many men of the clergy. He was always giving in anyway that he could. He taught his children how to live and to love. He directed them toward the future and how to get there. He is truly missed by us both.

“ My mind is over run with thoughts of what a beautiful person that God had created. I can only thank God that he gave me the privilege to call him DAD!!! He will be so sadly missed by so many family members and I commend him for the way he raised his children to be loving and respectful of each other. I also thank God that he was able to enjoy a life with his beautiful wife that loved him and cared for him for so many years. I'm not sure who was more blessed, him or us, but i'll have to call it a draw. I pray that someday I am worthy to see his beautiful face in heaven, and look forward to the day that I am fortunetate enough to see his handsome face and give him the kisses he deserves and to tell hm how much I truly love him. God gave us the best.... and we shred him with the rest. I will always miss and love you with all my heart. <3
