“ I cant believe you're really gone. I still feel your presence all around me. I miss you so much, and dad is sooo lonley without you. Sometimes he leaves the light on at night by your bed, just like you used to do when you would stay up late reading. Everyday gets a little bit harder, trying to except that you won't be comming home to us. But we all know for sure that you are now in the arms of the Lord, and you are safe, and smiling down on us from your eternal home. I love you mom
