“ How many times did I jump from black square to white square, hopscotch style, as Mom had her hair styled on Friday afternoon? Neither Leo nor Rachel grumbled or fussed as they well could have. Instead, they smiled, asked me about school, and listened intently. My thoughts and prayers are with you as you experience this earthly loss. Yet, I know my fond memories are multiplied by those you retain of your kind father. May these memories lighten your heart in the coming days. Love to you and Rachel.

“ Although I had not seen Leo in many years I have treasured memories. He and Georgia and Jimmy and Nicky were our neighbors. I spent a lot of time at their house. We all loved them dearly. And, of course, he, Rachel and Georgia were my godparents. My heart goes out to you all. I am recovering from a hip replacement but am going to try to make it to the cemetery on Tuesday.
