“ We were so sorry to here of this tragic accident. Through the years we have seen over and over the wonderful strengh and influence that this very special women has had on so many lives of both family and friends. As hard as it is to loose someone so special our Lord and Savior promises that those who love and obey him will have a home with him and through this we can have the comfort of knowing that we will be together again someday for the grandest family reunion of all. Please know that you are all in our loving thoughts and prayers and especially as you prepare to travel your lives without this most special loved one here on earth with you. But take comfort in knowing that we are sure that she will not give up watching over you all as she has always done in years pass.
