I was Mama's first born child. She was just shy of 3 months of turning 16...so I suppose we kinda raised each other. We've had some of the most amazing times together and have supported one another through various hardships as well. I'm so thankful for my sweet Mama, although at times she could be very stubborn...a trait I believe all of her children inherited. I'm grateful for the Gospel of Jesus Christ and the knowledge that families can be together forever.
