“ Both Mr. and Mrs. Green have been very special people to me. It was sad to lose Mr. Green, and now Mrs. Green has passed. It's sad for me, but probably pretty darn happy for Mr. and Mrs. Green, to be reunited. They first joined my practice in 1979. Thirty years of seeing each other at least twice a year. That's a big hunk of life. I learned about their family in Michigan, the dairy farm, the children and grandchildren, then great grandchildren, and finally great, great grandchildren. Mrs. Green was so happy with her family. I remember her grandson and others living with her for a while, and how open and loving she was. It wasn't good that her eyesight was going, but her positive attitude never quit. She always made the best of it. Although I care about every patient, there are some individuals who grow into very special people in your life, and you're very glad to know them. Both Mr. and Mrs. Green are two of those people. I'm sad to miss our visits and her smile, but I'm so happy that Mr. and Mrs. Green are on their Second Honeymoon tonight. Together Again.

“ Mrs. Green was my 1st grade teacher at Lincoln Elementary. She came to my classes every year until the 6th grade and brought me a treat from the bakery. She was a wonderful teacher and sweet woman. I am sad to hear of her passing. Kim (Falk) Wheatley

“ We are sad to hear of the passing of Mildred. She lived a long productive life touching many people's lives and contributing to the community around her. We enjoyed a picnic in Water Tower Park several years ago with Mildred and several of her family members. Recently I played the part of Mark Judd in the Beckwith Cemetery Tour and it gave me the opportunity to review some of my ancestry through the Judds Greens and Jewels. Our sympathy to all of you. While a card would be more appropriate this is the next best expression of sympathy. Please notify us when you make plans for a memorial service. Dick & Sandie Judd

“ Cousin Mildred saw the late days of the cowboys, the advent of the car, electronic marvels, man walking on the moon and more. She lived in an age that may have seen a broader spectrum of dramatic change than any other. We know that she will be sorely missed. We send our heart-felt condolences. Judy & Jim Sullivan
