“ Mom had great hearing and always wanted to know what was going on. Even right now, she would be asking what we are all talking about and what are we saying about her? Don't worry, Mom, I only have good things to say. Mom had a great love for all of us, her family, and her friends. She worked hard in her life to make sure we were given every opportunity for our future success. She was our biggest supporter. I remember going to the grocery store with her and being out doing errands. Mom would talk to random strangers just to tell them about the accomplishments of her girls and her grandchildren. That was Mom's version of "social media". Who needed Facebook when we had a mother who could spread the word? She even had pictures to share! Since we were very young, Mom instilled in us the values of hard work, commitment, honor, and respect. These were important to her as they were qualities she learned from her own parents, and since have become the legacy of our family that Donna, Don, Dean, and I have inherited to pass on to our own families. Mom came from a large family, and she was the youngest of 8 children. We all have fond and happy memories of many family weekends and holidays at grandma and grandpa's house with all our aunts, uncles, and cousins. After our grandmother's passing, Mom became that glue that continued to bond our family together. Mom made it her mission to continue the holiday and weekend traditions. Throughout the week, I have heard from several of our cousins who shared happy childhood memories of those times, and how their Aunt Nancy always made those times special and memorable. Mom's hospitality served as an example for all of us. Mom also was a loyal friend. She treasured all of her friends, especially those who were her life long friends from Newburgh, The Richichi, Cimorelli, and Edobohls families, and those special friends she made while living in Florida, The Canes, and her many friends from Continental. Mom made special friends of her care givers. There were many special angels who came from hospice and Home Instead to make her most difficult years and last days easier. Mom always made sure they found comfort and hospitality in her home. She referred to them all as her friends. My grandmother often told my mother that she should get down on her hands and knees every day and thank the good Lord that she had Earl as her husband. Mom knew that she had to be the luckiest and most blessed woman to have a man such as my Dad who would show such love and devotion to her. Mom loved her Earl so much and was fiercely protective of him. She was so proud of the life they built together. No one could give mom more pride than her grandchildren. She loved them all and disliked the word "step" as in step children. They were all the same in her eyes, and our children always understood that and loved her more for it. I would like to share some words that Leigh wrote to sum up what she meant to her grandchildren. "My gram never made me feel selfish for following my dreams. She never made me feel guilty. She never had a negative thing to say about my career choice or any adventure I wanted to explore. She gave me the world, near and far. I'm so thankful for very experience you made happen. Thank you gram for making me laugh my whole life, even through your final and weakest moments this week. I'm going to miss your sassy, New York attitude. I was very lucky to be grandmas girlfriend and to have such a special friendship with you." Mom, We are excited for you to be with your parents and brothers again. We know how much they all meant to you. Watch over all of us as our very own special guardian angel and give us all the strength we will need to live on. You will be forever in our hearts. We love you and rest easy now.

“ When I was young we spent most holidays and countless summer BBQ's at Aunt Nancy's. I was usually one of the younger kids at these family gatherings and always felt like Aunt Nancy went above and beyond to make things extra special for me. When I was little I though this special treatment was reserved exclusively for me. Reflecting back I now realize that Aunt Nancy made everyone feel that special. That is a mark of an extraordinary person, someone who makes everyone feel like they are the most important person in the room. Rest in peace, you are in my thoughts and prayers.
