Obituary of Patricia Ruppert

Patricia Gale "Patti" Ruppert, 54, born June 21, 1959 transitioned from her earthly body into the arms of Jesus on July 11, 2013. Patti was able to do something then that she had longed to do for many years and that is wrap her arms around her father George E. Brewer who preceded her in death. Patti was a musician, songwriter and entertainer, a very talented yet undiscovered writer, poet, and photographer and a lover and protector of animals. Patti loved deeper than the ocean and higher than the heavens and her absence will leave a great void in the lives of those she left behind to cherish her memory, her husband, Tommy Ruppert, her Mother, Opal Brewer, four sisters, Beverly Mitchell (Bill), Anne Gochanour, Rene DeYoung (Harry), Beth Dees (Dickey), one brother, Barry Brewer and a host of nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends.

“ It's hard to believe that Patti is gone from this earth and I will miss her. She was a god-send to us personally as helper and friend. My only regret is that she and Reba didn't get to see each other before she left.

“ Although I've known Tom for years and consider him a friend, I had only met Patti once, and that was recently. It was clear that she was a kind, sweet soul and that they were a loving couple. She and Tom are in my thoughts.

“ So sorry to hear of the loss of such a sweet soul. I had the privilege of knowing Patti for many years and also the privilege of playing music with she and tommy. I haven't seen Patti in several years I didn't know of her illness. I'm once again am sorry to hear of her passing. That beautiful voice of hers will be heard all over the heavens. You will be greatly missed. My prayers go out to the family so that god may comfort you in your time of need. God bless each and every one of you.
