“ October 8, 2014 — a day that changed my life forever.

Today, I honor my father: a faithful dad, a devoted mentor, and one hell of a golfer. He dedicated his life to raising his children with love, strength, and purpose. I will always cherish the time we shared, knowing the sacrifices he made to be the incredible father he was.

He believed in me before I even knew how to believe in myself. I still hear his voice telling me I could be anything I wanted—as long as I gave it my best. He once told me I could even be the first female President of the United States, and he meant it.

*I love you dearly and miss you deeply, Dad.
Save a spot for me in heaven. ❤️*
