“ Rick, right now I have no clear thoughts on what to say. I can only be honest and say thank you. Thank you for taking me in as a friend, thank you for being a great friend, thank you for taking me in to your family, thank you for entrusting with your beautiful daughter, thank you for considering me your son-in-law. Your presence at the dinner table cannot be replaced and I will always remember you until I too join you wherever you may be. I look forward to some second hand smoking with you on that day. I love you and I'm honored to have met you and honored to be a part of your family. Thanks for everything Dad.

“ Rick, and I know your online in heaven, you will never be replaced nor forgotten. I know the family is missing you and grieving and so I choose to rejoice in the knowledge that your in a better place (probably still giving them college boys problems). You welcomed me into your fold as a friend and as a family member. I know how much love and happiness you gave to Heather and her children and me and my children. Although holidays and get togethers might not be the same, a missing piece in any celebration I have the funny feeling you'll be pulling pranks on us from up there. All my love and condolences to all of your family and cant wait to someday see you again and sit a TV watching your guy (28) beat my guy (24). Youll be missed my friend.
