“ As Bob Junior, Anna and I remember and miss Dad, I keep thinking how lucky I was to be his daughter-in-law. He was a kind and generous man whose affection and love for his family was unbreakable. He also had a sly sense of humor that I'll miss very much. In the years to come, I will remember the way he liked to noodle around on the piano during visits, strum the ukulele, play the violin and listen to Polish Christmas carols over the holidays. I'll miss his borscht at Easter (a dish he converted me too - I had never tried it before!) and cookbook recommendations. I'll miss our political discussions. Dad was a man of many talents and insatiable curiosity; he never stopped learning, which is a lesson for us all. But most of all, I'll miss the way he always showed how deeply he cared for his family. He took an interest in all of our lives and did everything he could to make them better. He set a wonderful example as a husband and a father, and in that way, he will continue to be a positive influence for those of us who knew and loved him. Rest in peace, Dad.

“ We just received a call an hour ago from Paul (Bob's wife's brother) conveying the news of Bob's passing. We had seen them both last July when Bob and Joyce spent three days with us in our home in Charlottesville, VA. Joanne had known Bob and Joyce from elementary school and they introduced her to Joe on a blind date at Langley Air Force Base. We have always loved both of them and will do so forever.

“ My sympathies to your family on the loss of Bob. My favorite memory of him was acting in my first play with him in The Odd Couple Female Version. He was a wonderful thespian and a joy to be on the stage with. What a joyful, fun loving guy he was. I will miss seeing him around Plantation. I will keep your family in my prayers.

“ Bob was our best friend. Bob was a very giving person not only with his family but to everyone he came in contact with whether it was through his singing, acting, reading or trusting a friend to paint with him. He loved his garden and lovingly gave of its fruits. If you needed anything Bob was always there. Our card games were somewhat boisterous at times but we'll miss his snickering laugh when the guys won. Our cruises won't be the same without the man who loved his bread & soup. We miss him more each passing day. Bob is not gone, he will always be with us.
