“ I first met Bob Dunton at a first-year teacher orientation concerning procedures to be followed. "You use the yellow form to report..., the green form to report..., and the white form for a discipline referral," he directed, and then smiled with "you will get the hang of it. Don't worry about it." On the other hand, when the quarter grades were due, we had better get them in on time because "you will be holding up all the report cards," he would admonish. I was scared to death of using the wrong form and being late. When some writing appeared on the wall of the restroom, Bob, as vice principal, was on the case and would have the culprit in his office within the hour. When a student was disrespectful to a teacher, Bob made it clear the teacher was right and the student was wrong. Some might say that Bob was from the old school, where there were expectations about conduct and respect and doing your best - - that was true for students as well as for teachers. We knew Bob was looking out for everyone. It was on the off hours that I met the "kid" in Bob with a sense of humor and a great laugh. I remember one day he did a little dancing jig when I was depressed over something. "It's going to be okay," he would say, and he was right. As my roles changed, I found myself sitting in his office, enjoying our time together. He really was a nice guy who was committed to kids, to teachers, and to success. I would be reminded of that friend of mine each year when we exchanged a Christmas card or saw one another at a retirement party. I gave him a hug and felt complete with those memories together. To Joan and to your family, may you find comfort in those memories and knowing that Bob is with his son and with the angels and the saints.

“ Dear Joan, We extend to you and your family our sincere sympathy for the loss of Bob, one of the best principals ever. We really enjoyed our dinner with you at your home in the The Villages several years ago. Our friend from Ocala passed away , so we do not get up that way very often anymore. Bob was a true gentleman and an inspiration. He will be remembered as an outstanding educator.

“ Bob will surely be missed in the neighborhood. He was such an inspiration watching him walk by on his walker, never giving up. Upon reading his obituary, we can see he lived a very giving and interesting life. I am certain you have lovely memories of your life together.
