“ Every time I came to Bushnell to see my brother Jim Palmer, Sara always was warm and welcoming. She looked after me the same way she looked after him. When I tried to contact her of Jim's death, I was told that she had also died. My immediate thot was "guess they'll meet and enter together" Let the love and compassion of our Lord enfold you. “ When Sara Cecil moved back to Bushnell and joined First Baptist Church, those of us who knew her sister, Alyce, were surprised at the difference in the two sisters. Both had the same endearing personality, love and caring, honesty, funniness, helpfulness, etc., but Sara took her funniness to extremes. She used it to push her passions for her Lord, his church, worthwhile causes, to lift depressing moods from others, as she encouraged all. "MISS SARA", as so many of us, young and old, referred to her, brought delightful joy into our lives. We all waited with breathless anticipation when she took the stage because we all knew her 'performance' would be funny in a way that would delight even Jesus. Miss Sara recognized what we came to expect from her. She never let us down! Even after she began her long illness fight, she did it in an endearing way to set an example of how to fight and how to continue to love and serve our Lord. We thank our God for the joy and happiness "Miss Sara" spread in our lives and her example. Miss Sara's passing leaves a big hole in our hearts and lives. None can take her place. She will be/is missed.
