PS

“ I don't write in public however will as a tribute to my family. Well what to say, a life time of happiness with my Mom and Dad, good guidance, always there to help us. Solid in her beliefs, strong in her faith and thanks to Dad for his strong caring compassionate leadership, he was the one who got us all up on Sunday to go to church, otherwise we would have slept in. What more could one want from their parents than to always have them willing to help you? Miles and I received so many wonderful comments about Mom and Dad from so many who knew them. Many thanks to my dear brother and his wife for their untiring support of my parents and family. Many thanks to my brother for his strength in doing all the administrative tasks that supported Mom and Dad during life and through their final days. For our Dear Mother, many people knew her in many ways and from many different perspectives. Mine was from the Sons perspective, I was amazed to hear stories from all her friends on how she had helped so many of them in so many ways, these things I hadn't heard as she always kept quiet about what she did to help others. Even I heard from one of her high school friends whom she maintained contact with, amazing for me to have that opportunity her hear her story of Mom. Hard as it is to be happy about her passing, she would have wanted it and often told us "don't cry for me when I'm gone" she often stated that she had a good life and noted to us life mistakes to avoid such as "don't misuse your time being angry with people" She was a very strong soul, in the end one always regrets something, perhaps the amount of time they didn't spend, Mom would often state to "be happy for what you had experienced". So be it, this is a loss that will never close in my heart and those of many others. For those who truly knew her, there are no words that can convey the mountain of emotion behind the simple words "we miss you" however lets remain stoic and follow her guidance, continue to use your time wisely, be happy, and continue experiencing. She was as colorful and deep as the Florida paintings that she created, full of color, clouds and reflections and wonderful to look at, however there was always a deeper hidden beauty in the hues which could only be unlocked by slowing down and taking time with her. This time of reflection now will last a lifetime for all of us. However in the words of my parents and brother, let's use our time wisely and continue to live and experience, to be happy for what we have and to use this event as a bridge to build love and understanding between others. I wish you all well. Phil
