“ I knew Pam Pemble in 1964. When I read about her death I felt like I was not allowed to mourn for her because I had not been in touch for many years. That was very painful for me. Then, when I learned that she had lost her daughter, Sydney, I could not keep from being overcome by this news, and the pain Pam and her husband must have been going through. I know, because in 2003 my daughter Claire was murdered in Philadelphia: so I felt the same pain the Pemble and Straessley families are going through. If I could substitute my life for the lives of Pam, Sydney, and my daughter, Claire - I would not hesitate to do so. But I know for sure that I will feel the same pain that both families will continue to feel. I am so grieved over all of this, that it is beyond any words that I can find to describe the sadness I feel. Please forgive me for not being a better friend to all of you over the past 50 years, and know that I am calling out to God to give eternal life to Pam and Sydney - and my daughter. You are in my prayers.

“ Dearest Ones, We wanted to let you know how saddend we are to hear of Sydney's passing, we remember her with the cutest smile, always animated and giggling. She reminded me of Punky Brewster and others have said the same. She has a beautiful little son. You are in our thoughts and prayers.
