“ Many years ago while I was waiting for Veras daughter to come home from work, she shared a story with me that I called her love story of how she had met her husband in Paris and he had followed her home without her knowing and showed up at a party she had went to. I have always remembered that and thought it was so nice that she shared that with me. My deepest sympathy to her children, whom she loved dearly and for her daughter who has lost her best friend.
