“ There are no words to explain how much we will miss him. He had an extreme love of family, and a drive to stay in touch, and mostly oversee that we are all ok. It is unbearable to think of not talking with him again. It is bearable though, to know that he is finally comfortable. I love you uncle Vinny, your "adopted" niece Jo. Ronnie salutes you with love.

“ Jane, I wish to extend my sincere condolence to you, Barbara and Vincent. Although I only had the privilege of being a part of your lives for 3 short years, I always appreciated how you and Vincent welcomed me into your home and into your loving family. He and you are both in my thoughts and prayers at this time! I have such fond memories of "Mr. Minissale" although I found him to be a man of few words; at least to me. Having lost my own father a few months prior to Barbara and I dating, I naturally began gravitating to where he became a quasi father figure to me and a role model. I never revealed that to him of course. I believe I stayed on his good side throughout the 3 years Barbara and I dated, but he always kept me wondering exactly where I stood in his eyes. With my long hair and beard at times during my relationship with Barbara , he must have wondered what his daughter ever saw in this wolf man! I often wondered the same and thankfully it took her 3 years to come to her senses! Being someone who has always recognized and admired a sense of humor in a person, most of my memories of Vin are of his often dry sense of humor. I can still envision him lying on the couch with his shoes off after dinner and watching Max and Agent 99 in Get Smart reruns. (As I said he was my role model!) To this day, I cannot see an episode of Get Smart or think of Maxwell Smart and not be reminded of Vincent. I regret that I didn't get to share more time with him and get to know his more closely for I always admired and respected him as a man, as a husband and as a father. In my own parenting, especially with my two daughters, I am often reminded of how you both related to Barbara and pattern myself accordingly. There is a phrase with the letters WWJD that is suppose to make you stop and ask "What Would Jesus Do?" When confronted with a parenting problem I often ask myself a similar question of WWJD, although in my case it is "What Would Janie Do?" It hasn't let me down yet! Again I wish to offer my condolences and let you know how deeply saddened I was to learn of Vincent's passing. Though I am not able to attend the service on Saturday, I will be there in both spirit and thought. At 10:30 that morning I will offer up my own personal prayers for his eternal peace in Heaven. Whether he hears me or not may depend on whether he and Don

“ Uncle Vinnie Words cannot say the void you have left in our hearts. I will never forget the joy you, and Aunt Jane brought to my childhood. I will miss our talks, but you will forever be with us in our hearts and thoughts. We will take care of Aunt Jane for you, and you say hello to mom and give her a hug for us. Love you and miss you. God keep you in his arms until we see you again.
